Faculty Office Restructure
The Faculty Office has recently undergone a review that will result in significant changes in the way the School communicates with the Faculty, and which tasks are completed at the School and the Faculty level. Until these changes have been finalised and staff appointed Maxine McInnes is the School’s main contact person.

Staff Changes
Graham will finish his term as Dean on 30 June 2011, and applications have recently closed. Vacancies will also become open as Associate Head Teaching and Learning in the middle of 2011 and Associate Head Research at the end of 2011. These will also be filled by application. There will also be a need for a postgraduate coordinator during Semester 2 to replace Kate Douglas who will be on leave. A call for expressions of interest will be circulated shortly.

Progress with new positions
The French/Linguistics and English and Creative Writing positions that were not filled in previous rounds will be re-advertised with amended criteria.

The School has recently received permission to advertise specifically for a Creative Arts position under the VC’s strategic professorships project. Staff working in these areas who are aware of suitable colleagues were asked to encourage them to apply.

New Courses
From 2012 there will be a new Dance Stream in the Bachelor of Creative Arts, which will be co-taught between Flinders and TAFESA

Cross-Institutional Enrolment, Charles Darwin University
There is work currently taking place to form links between Flinders University and Charles Darwin University. Any staff members who have undergraduate topics that could easily be developed into online topics, which would be of benefit to both institutions should contact the Head of Department as soon as possible.
