Michael Barr

Dr Barr is a senior lecturer in international relations. He is Head of the Department of International Relations and a member of the Flinders Asia Centre Management Committee. One of his research interests is religion and ethnicity in politics and he has also lectured on genocide. He has published on religious nationalism and nation building in Asia.

Susan Breau

Professor Susan Breau mainly conducts research in the areas of the Law of Armed Conflict, International Protection of Human Rights and the Law of International Organisations in the School of Law. She has earlier held the positions of Dorset Fellow in International Law at the British Institute of International and Comparative Law and as Reader at the University of Surrey.

Tina Dolgopol

Associate Professor Tina Dolgopol has published in the fields of human rights, children’s rights and women in armed conflict. She has participated in improving the gender provisions in the Statute establishing the International Criminal Court and is a co-author of the Law Society of South Australia’s submission to the Human Rights Consultation.

Chris Kwong

Chris Kwong is a recent graduate of a Bachelor of LLB/LP (Hon) and International Studies from Flinders University. Since April 2009 he was a Committee Member of the South Australian International Humanitarian Law (IHL) Committee for the Australian Red Cross representing youth interests and encouraging youth participation in IHL. In October 2010 he formed and lead a team, the South Australian IHL Collective, in successfully running a public campaign and demonstration, "Freeze for Humanity" (a flash-mob freeze) in Adelaide. The Freeze gained media attention, had over 150 participants and reached over 3,800 people via Facebook. The Collective has approximately 150 current facebook members. In January 2011 he was appointed to assist the Australian Red Cross' National IHL Department by engaging youth nationwide in IHL related matters, which include organising activities to raise public awareness around such issues.

Dr Grant Niemann

Dr Grant Niemann is Associate Dean and Director of Studies at Flinders Law School. His expertise covers International Criminal Law, War Crimes and Crimes against humanity. Grant has earlier held the position of Senior Trial Attorney for the United Nations International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and is now Chair of the International Humanitarian Law Committee of Australian Red Cross in South Australia.

David Radford

David Radford is a lecturer in International Studies.
Dr Hossein Esmaeili

Dr Hossein Esmaeili is a senior lecturer in International Law. He lectures and publishes in International Law, Immigration and Refugee Law and Natural Resources Law. His recent publication is ‘On a Slow Boat Towards the Rule of Law: The Nature of Law in the Saudi Arabian Legal System’.

Richard Leaver

Mr Richard Leaver is a Reader in International Relations and lectures in the economic aspects of international relations with particular attention to energy and oil. He also is a specialist in nuclear proliferation/nuclear non-proliferation and Australian foreign policy regarding these issues. His publications focus on trade and energy security.

Dr David Palmer

Dr David Palmer is a senior lecturer in American Studies with a special interest in international politics and US relations with Asia.

Susanne Schech

Associate Professor Susanne Schech is Head of the Centre for Development Studies and contributes to topics on development theories and sustainable development. She is actively engaged in coordinating the university's research activities related to migration and refugees.