The fjhp Style guide

The Editorial Board of the Flinders Journal of History & Politics is pleased to consider manuscripts dealing with political, modern historical, economic, philosophical and social issues. Contentious and or radical positions are encouraged. Articles will be subject to peer review by independent academic referees.

It is a condition of submission that contents are original and have not been previously published elsewhere or are under consideration in another publication. Until the editorial board has conveyed a decision to the author regarding inclusion or otherwise in the journal a submission’s publishing rights are held by the journal. Submission should include the title, word length, the inclusion of any diagrams or tables and an abstract of approximately 100 words. Submission must be between 5,000 and 8,000 words. Review articles are generally between, 1,500 words and 2,500 words in length. Unsolicited book reviews and correspondence must not exceed 700 words.

Submissions can be sent electronically to fjhp@flinders.edu.au in Microsoft office compatible software, with a title page as a separate attachment. Mailed submissions must include two copies of the manuscript, typed, single sided, double spaced, with wide margins and a disk copy. Copies of submissions will not be returned. All references should be included as consecutively numbered endnotes. The following method of citation should be used in all submissions.

First Book Citation: Fukuyama, Francis, The End of History and the Last Man, New York: Free Press 1992, p. 45. Second Book Citation: Fukuyama, end of History, p. 45.

First Article Citation: Cohen, Avner, ‘divided Capitalism and Marx’s Concept of Politics’s’, Political Studies, vol. 43, no. 1, March 1995, pp. 92-104. Second Article Citation: Cohen, ‘divided Capitalism and Marx’s Concept of Politics’, p. 95.

The use of ibid., op.cit, loc.cit., Should be avoided where possible. A full list of authors should always be included in a first reference; thereafter the principal author’s last name followed by et al is acceptable. Page numbers relating the entire article’s length are not necessary. All other references to page numbers should be denoted by p. or pp. and chapters by ch. or chs. Do not include a bibliography. All sources used should be listed in the endnotes.

Some suggestions:

1. Please be sure to keep a copy of your manuscript. Editors accumulate large reams of material that is purged from time to time, and modern means of communications are never foolproof.

2. Do not contact The Editors to enquire about the feasibility of an idea you may have. Take the plunge and write the article and send it in. Useless correspondence is procrastination.

3. We like to be prompt with our replies, however with Editors and referees to read your articles this is not always as streamlined as we would wish.

4. Do not attempt the safe route to publication. Try and be progressive, original and radical.
