1. Call for General Staff Members to University Council 2011-2012

Nominations are now invited for the election of two members of Council, elected by the general staff, for a term of two years, from 1 January 2011 until 31 December 2012.

Members of general staff wishing to nominate for a position on Council should read the instructions and download a nomination from the Elections website http://www.flinders.edu.au/elections.

2. New University Senior Executive Structure

The position of Registrar has been abolished.

A new position has been created, Vice-President (Strategy & Planning), reporting directly to the Vice-Chancellor. Bronwyn Simondson has been appointed to this position.

The position of Executive Director of Administration will continue until such time as an appointment is made for the new position of Vice-President (Strategic Finance & Resources), after which it too will be abolished.

Following the retirement of Barbara Fergusson, Steve Jones will be Executive Director of Administration. He will also remain Director, Academic & Student Services.

3. Head, Policy & Secretariat

As of Monday 30 August 2010, Mrs Kim Jones will assume the role of Head, Policy and Secretariat, reporting to the Vice-President (Strategy and Planning). The duties of this role, which include management of the staff in the Policy and Secretariat and Central Records Office, previously formed part of the responsibilities of the Registrar. Kim will be undertaking this new role in addition to her normal duties, including responsibility for managing the implementation of an EDRMS.

As many of you will know, Kim is a very experienced administrator and has worked in a number of administrative units both in the former Faculty of Social Sciences and Central Administration. She is well equipped for this new role.

4. Flinders Lifeshift Program

A significant initiative within Flinders' Employee Well Being Program is to support our staff with career, life and transition to retirement planning. The LifeShift Program is designed to assist employees 50 years plus to consider and plan for new options and possibilities to maximise their opportunities for a happy and stress-free lifestyle which includes the opportunity to continue to utilise their talents and skills. There will be a session on Friday, 24 September, 10.00am-4.00pm, with a follow up half-day session listed on the website. To enrol, or register for the waiting list, visit: https://www.flinders.edu.au/staffdev/index.php/course/DDK.
5. Finance News

Staff, Student, Non-employee Reimbursement

The forms to be completed for payments to employees, students or external parties for reimbursements and advances are located on the University website at http://www.flinders.edu.au/finance/forms.cfm

The most relevant forms are:
ACC1 Employee Reimbursement Form
ACC2 Acquittal (of an advance)
ACC3 Employee Advance Requisition
ACC8 Unacquitted Per Diem
ACC9 Non-Employee Advance Requisition

To ensure forms will scan correctly we request that forms be typed NOT handwritten.

Forms should be completed in full and include:
Employee No.
Date
Invoice no (full date & initials e.g., 250909XX)
Description/reason for payment
Total Amount Claimed
Project/Account No.
The natural Account is the expense code - if in doubt please check with FSO.

Forms must be signed by the requestor, supervisor and School Dean.

The completed form along with original receipts should be forwarded to Faculty Services Office (Room 250 SSS) for checking and processing.

Any forms that are incorrectly completed or do not have School approval will be returned.

Please note: The Employee Advance Requisition form is to request funds in advance and must be acquitted with receipts on return from travel, etc. If Staff require an Advance of funds prior to travel (overseas), and have prior approval from Dean of School not to acquit the funds, an "Unacquitted Per Diem" form (ACC8) should be completed. Please be aware, unacquitted per diems incur payroll tax (~5%), this amount will be automatically deducted from the account.

6. Occupational Health & Safety

Vickie Armstrong has been re-elected as Chair of the Faculty’s OH&S Committee.

It has been brought to our attention that ALL SECURITY staff are trained and have access to DEFIB machines. If you are ever in need of one, please call security.

First Aid Training. If you have an interest in attending First Aid training, please contact Vickie Armstrong via email. We are aiming at having an on-campus training session if numbers are sufficient.

Workplace inspections are currently being undertaken in the South & Law & Commerce buildings. Please make your room available to John Murphy for the brief period he is there.

Staff members who supervise other staff are responsible for their safety and are required by law to complete the OHS on-line training package. It is available at: http://www.flinders.edu.au/ohsw/SupTrng_Register/register.htm

Phyllis Tharenou
Executive Dean
Prof Richard Clark Retires

Prof Richard Clark recently retired from his position in the School of Psychology at Flinders – at the tender age of 63. He will maintain Honorary Academic Status at Flinders as he pursues his research interests, and will continue his work in private practice and with the Brain Resource Company. Richard was born in the UK and started his serious working life as computer programmer in Zambia. He studied psychology at the University of Adelaide in the mid to late 1970s, before doing a PhD in the Medical School working with Profs L. and G. Geffen from medicine and psychology, respectively. After graduating in 1986 he held a National Research Fellowship at Flinders from 1986-89, and took up a Lectureship in Psychology in 1989. He then moved up though the ranks, culminating in an appointment as Professor in 2006.

His training was in neuropsychology and cognitive neuroscience. During his time at Flinders he taught in cognition, psychobiology & cognitive neuroscience and was influential in developing undergraduate and postgraduate programs in cognitive neuroscience that involved people across disciplines. He developed a laboratory in cognitive neuroscience that integrated people from medical school, computing science and elsewhere, and drew funding from NHMRC, ARC and other sources. This happened at a time when interest in and funding for neuroscience was burgeoning in Australia and internationally, and Richard was always an active and enthusiastic promoter of these developments within Flinders and nationally. Recognition of his significant contributions in this area came with his election in 2009 to the Academy of Social Sciences in Australia. In his 21 years on staff at Flinders he supervised more than 30 honours theses & 9 PhDs. He took on a number of significant administrative roles at Flinders including membership of the Faculty of Social Sciences Research Committee and Chair of its Higher Degrees Committee. From 2006-09 he served as Head of the School of Psychology.

The School of Psychology farewelled Richard at a function in the School in August, wishing him well in his retirement and looking forward to his ongoing research contributions.

The Centre for Development Studies at Flinders University turns 30 in 2010. To celebrate this occasion there will be a Symposium entitled Development Studies in the Antipodes: Current Research and Praxis to be held at Flinders University, Victoria Square on Monday 20 and Tuesday 21 September 2010. The Symposium will bring together scholars associated with development studies programs from Australia, New Zealand and the United Kingdom to promote cross-disciplinary debate on research and praxis in Development Studies. The Keynote Speaker is Professor Uma Kothari, University of Manchester, Institute for Development Policy and Management.

Seating is limited and registrations close Monday 13 September 2010.

We look forward to seeing you at the Symposium.

HISTORY

During the non-teaching period Andrekos Varnava spent five weeks in Britain working in archives and participating in conferences. He primarily worked at the Asia, Pacific and Africa Collection and the Manuscript Collection at the British Library, and at the National Archives of the United Kingdom at Kew Gardens, also spending a day at both the Liddell Hart Centre for Military Archives at King’s College and the Public Records Office of Northern Ireland in Belfast. The primary focus of his research was the Armenian Legion and more broadly the Armenian Question from 1914 to 1923. While in the UK he attended two conferences. He was a keynote speaker at the launch of his book British Imperialism in Cyprus, 1878-1915: The Inconsequential Possession (Manchester University Press, 2009) at the conference Identity and the Other British Isles at the University of Huddersfield on 24 and 25 June. Then he presented a paper titled ‘Cultural Diversity in Cyprus: National Minorities as an Internal-Exclusion’ at the Tenth International Conference on Diversity in Organisations, Communities and Nations, at the Queen’s University Belfast in Northern Ireland held from 19 to 21 July. Overall the trip was very worthwhile, but now he has the daunting task of catalogue and processing over 20,000 pages which he photographed at the National Archives, Kew.

While away the following article of his was published:

“Reinterpreting Macmillan’s Cyprus Policy, 1957-1960”, The Cyprus Review, XXII, 1, Spring 2010, 79-106. (E-mail Andric’s for a PdF copy.)

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Michael Martin has just returned from the UK where he took part in a week long Multinational Experiment (MNE 6) at the UK Defence Academy. The purpose of this experiment was to test new doctrine focused on the operationalisation of security transitions. Michael then travelled to Bologna, Italy, where he took part in a four week multinational Peace and Security Symposium on Conflict Prevention, Resolution and Reconstruction. The Symposium included modules on conflict prevention, conflict management and resolution (including intensive mediation and negotiation training), post-conflict reconciliation and reconstruction, several multilateral simulations, and social entrepreneurship.

Michael Barr delivered a two-hour lecture to Year 12 students at Marden Senior College on ‘A Tour of Democracies in Asia’, on Friday 6 August and a public lecture on ‘Religion, Politics and the Modern World’ to the North Adelaide Philosophical Cafe at the Caledonian Hotel, North Adelaide, on Tuesday 10 August. He also delivered the closing lecture to the School of Education’s Graduate Diploma in Studies in Asia on Saturday 21 August. The lecture was entitled, ‘Asia’s achievements before the European era: More than spaghetti!’

Michael Sullivan has agreed to act as Chief Examiner for the Foundation Studies Program (FSP) International Studies and Australian and International Politics courses at Eynesbury College.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL & POLICY STUDIES

POLITICS & PUBLIC POLICY

On 16-18th August Jane Robbins attended a national workshop for Indigenous women academics in Brisbane as a guest speaker. The Tiddas Workshop series is an ALTC funded forum organised by Centre for Indigenous Education and Research, ACU and QUT. This workshop focussed on writing up research for publication.

Jane Robbins publications:

Jo Boulderstone facilitated a Strategic Planning for the Southern Housing Round Table, which comprises government and non-government service providers in the south who have a long history of effective collaborative practice.

SOCIAL WORK & SOCIAL PLANNING

The School wishes to welcome Trish Amee our new Fieldwork Coordinator

Damien Riggs:

Damien has also made submissions in the last month to the:

Federal Senate Legal and Constitutional Committee Inquiry into Inquiry into Donor Conception in Australia, the South Australian Parliament Social Development Inquiry into Same-Sex Parenting, and the Victorian Law Reform Committee Inquiry into Access by Donor-Conceived People to Information about Donors.

SOCIOLGY

Dr Jennifer Rutherford gave a key note lecture at the Socio-Legal Research Centre, Griffith University to a symposium entitled "What does it mean to speak as a Lacanian Woman?" She also wrote a

Dr Constance Lever-Tracy's edited book, The Routledge Handbook of Climate Change and Society was published in July and launched on 30th July in the Noel Stockdale Room of the Library by Professor Andrew Millington, with speeches from a number of local contributors.

Emeritus Professor Riaz Hassan gave a paper on “Australian Muslims: Are there Barriers to their Social Inclusion?” at the University of Western Sydney. He also presented a paper: “Life as a Weapon” at the ARC Centre of Excellence in Policing and Security, Griffiths University which was a shared event with the University of Queensland Institute of Social Science Research. A recent publication is: “Life as a Weapon: Making Sense of Suicide Bombings” in Dialogue, the publication of the Academy of the Social Sciences in Australia, vol 29(2), 2010.

Riaz’s major book “Life as a Weapon: the Global Rise of Suicide Bombings” has now been published by Routledge. This book is the culmination of his 5-year ARC Australian Professorial Fellowship.

1. Recycling paper
Many offices and rooms have a recycle bin or box of some sort. One thing we sometimes see is the wrong sort of paper put in these bins. A good way of knowing whether or not paper is recyclable is the ‘tear test’: if you can tear the paper, it is recyclable. However, this is not infallible. The wrappers from reams of paper have a thin coating of plastic and can not be recycled. The effort is appreciated, but please just dispose of ream wrappers in the normal bin.

2. Help us help you!
Recently we received a call for help from one of the theatrettes. A lecturer couldn’t get Powerpoint to work. Someone went out to help them. What was the trouble? The computer screen wouldn’t turn on.

Seriously, if the screen won’t turn on, please tell us that the screen won’t turn on. Don’t tell us you can’t use Powerpoint. That may be what you want to do but it isn’t the problem. We had to call AV in to fix the problem, which we would have done in the first place had we known the real trouble.

Another person called at noon with a problem that had to be rectified by 1:00pm. As we are short-handed they were told we would be up as quickly as possible but it might take a while. One of us decided to squeeze in the job between two others and went straight up. The staff member wasn’t there. If you have an urgent problem, please don’t call us and then go out of your office.

3. Something’s not right...
A postgraduate called one day saying that there was a burning smell coming from one of the computers. Going up to see it, we found the computer switched off at the mains, and a slight but noticeable odour of melted plastic. The computer was removed to our office, opened and inspected. It took some time to isolate the cause as it was well hidden under various bits of hardware, but yes, the postgrad was right:

!Burnt hard drive and holder.

If you notice anything unusual or ‘not right' about your computer, and it doesn’t go away in a few minutes, please let us know. Left on, this would have caught fire. For new staff members, this includes ants habitually going in and out of your computer. One ant isn’t a problem. Ant nests are. Yes, it does happen.

4. Asset numbers/barcodes
Many of you will have had your computers ‘remote controlled’ by us to fix a problem. This is a quick, very effective way for us to deal with problems. The only things we need to know are which room you are in (eg 260N) and what the asset number / barcode of your computer is.

This can cause confusion, it seems. The asset number of your computer is a small sticker all on its own, either on the side or the front of your computer. The older type of barcode is white and says “Flinders University Social Sciences”, give the barcode, and have a six-digit number starting with 04 or 05 underneath. The new ones are a dark pink in colour and start with 104. Currently there are only about 20-30 of them in use. Here are samples:

The other barcode on computers and indeed all electrical equipment is the electrical testing barcode. It will have 4 or 5 digits and be part of a larger sticker on a piece of equipment or wrapped around a power cord:

5. Humour

I was at a client site, to finish a computer survey, and was asked, “Since you’re here, can you fix the printer in the office?” I went in there, and was told by the supervisor that an employee who thought he was “a computer demigod” tried to fix it but might have made it worse.

Understatement of the year.

The “demigod” opened the case and tried to yank out the toner cartridge without releasing the clips that hold it down. He ripped the top off the toner cartridge, which I had just replaced two weeks ago.

When he ripped it off, there was a cloud of toner that went all over the place, both inside the printer and outside, all over the walls, windows, desk, keyboard, computer, mouse...everything. To try to cover it up he got a wet towel and tried to wipe it all up, leaving nice black smears all over the places that wouldn’t clean off. The toner shorted out the main circuit board in the printer and fried the keyboard, which he had rinsed off in the sink and plugged back into the computer. In addition, toner spilled into the wall mounted air conditioner and shorted out the electronics in there as well. So, in addition to making a huge mess, he failed to fix the printer’s original problem. What was the printer’s original problem? It was out of paper.
