Awards

Caitlin Hitchcock (Clinical PhD student 2014) was awarded Best Newcomer Award for her presentation titled: The prospective role of cognitive appraisals and social support in predicting children's posttraumatic stress at the British Association for Behavioural and Clinical Psychotherapies Conference 2015.

Arrivals

Welcome to Dr Sarah Cohen-Woods who was successful in receiving a 3-year Mathew Flinders Fellow position with the School of Psychology and will commence on February 1st 2016. Sarah will be lecturing in a third year topic and will be taking on Honours and PhD students. Sarah will be joining us for our strategic planning day in February.

Conference Presentations

Grants
Kemps, E., & Tiggemann, M. Automatic cognitive mechanisms underlying soft drink consumption. 2016. $25,000. DVC-R Near Miss Scheme, Flinders University.

Postgraduate Student Publications

Gradisar, M., & Richardson C. (in press). CBT-i cannot rest until the sleepy teen can. Sleep.

Professional & Community Service
Michael Gradisar presented on Adolescent Insomnia in a Best Practice Course for the 8th Bi-Annual Conference of Pediatric Sleep Medicine, and co-chaired a symposium on Sleep, Learning and Memory.

Eva Kemps participated in a talk back radio program of 891 ABC Adelaide on the topic of food cravings (30/10/2015).

Julie Robinson gave three workshop presentations and co-ordinated the adjudication of research posters at the 11th ISSBD African Workshop: an intensive training program for 60 early career researchers in developmental science from across Africa, hosted by Kenyatta University, Nairobi, 4-6 November.

Julie Robinson gave a full day pre-conference workshop, an invited keynote address “Why every psychologist needs to know at least a little implementation science”, and a full-day post-conference workshop, at the 2nd East and Central African Regional Conference of Psychology, Nairobi Hilton, Nov 8-12th.

Julie Robinson met with two early career researchers and their supervisors in Zambia in her role as ISSBD Mentor for two scholars awarded ISSBD-Jacobs Foundation Developing Country Fellowships. She also gave a staff colloquium at the University of Zambia, Lusaka.

Visitors
Dr Christin Lang from the University of Basel, Switzerland, will be doing her postdoc with Michael Gradisar investigating the benefits of physical activity on adolescents’ sleep. Christin is funded by a Swiss National Science Foundation Early Mobility Fellowship and will arrive in February 2016.

Please send information for the December Newsletter by the end of November to karen.yardley@flinders.edu.au