Faculty Public Lecture Series

The Faculty Public Lecture Series aims to present the research of our top researchers to a broad-ranging audience. The focus is on translating the research conducted by our staff into information that is relevant to government, industry and the broader community.

Associate Professor Fiona Verity, Dean, School of Social and Policy Studies, will present the next in the series: ‘Exploring obesity through the lens of risk management’ on Tuesday 13 September, commencing at 6pm, at the Flinders University City Campus, Level 1, 182 Victoria Square. Drinks and finger food will follow the one hour lecture.

For more information and to register, please go to:

On Wednesday 24 August the Faculty presented another Public Lecture in its 2011 series at the Victoria Square Campus. Entitled ‘Reforming Asia: How the re-emergence of China and India is reforming Asia’, the lecture was presented by Professor Malcolm Cook, Dean, School of International Studies.

Drawing on an article he recently co-wrote in The American Interest, Malcolm highlighted the re-emergence of the world’s only two billion plus person states to once again become recognised global powers, and how this will challenge Australia’s place in the world. For a country like Australia, on the southern maritime extremes of Asia and committed to a predominantly maritime view of Asia, this reorientation will require some significant soul-searching.

The audience of 70 included private sector international consultants, government and industry practitioners, members of the general public and University staff. A number of interesting questions concerning Australia’s economic dependence on Asia and whether it was in Australia’s best interest to be considered as part of Asia continued to engage the audience in discussion over the drinks and nibbles that followed the lecture event.

Australian Learning & Teaching Council Awards and Citations ceremony.
AAUT Awards and ALTC Citations programs recognise teaching excellence and outstanding contributions to student learning at the highest level. This year the Awards and Citations were presented at a national ceremony on the evening of 16 August at the Sydney Opera House. Four SABS staff were awarded ALTC Citations of Outstanding Contributions to Student Learning:

- Associate Professor Robyn Young (School of Psychology), for enhancing domestic and international students' therapeutic skills in clinical and family settings through the development of a sustainable intervention program for children with disabilities;

- An Early Career award was presented to our Gender Consortium – Dr Anuradha Mundkur and Ms Cara Ellickson (International Studies), and Mr Corey Durward, for creating innovative learning spaces which promote the critical application of knowledge to ‘real world’ gender equity issues and inspire students to become change agents.

Public Lecture Series
Co-hosted by History SA, Flinders University and The University of South Australia
Drinks and nibbles will be served.

Staff Activities

Dr Minerva Nasser-Eddine, research fellow and reader of Middle Eastern politics and society, was interviewed by The Wire, SBS Radio and Radio Adelaide on political developments in Libya and the ongoing consequences of the Arab Spring.

Anthony J. Langlois has recently presented at two conferences. One, at Macquarie University, was hosted by the Research Committee on Political Philosophy of the International Political Science Association, and was titled ‘Articulations of Justice (part Two): Justice and Equality.’ Langlois presented a paper titled ‘Cosmopolitanism and Democracy’ – a critique of the recent work of Gillian Brock. In Canberra, Langlois was invited to the Centre for Deliberative Democracy and Global Governance’s Conference on Global Democracy to be a discussant for a paper presented by Professor Carol Gould (CUNY) on the idea of a Human Right to Democracy.

Anthony has also recently posted a piece on Human Rights at the International Relations blog ‘The disorder of things’ (http://thedisorderofthings.wordpress.com/2011/07/10/human-rights-in-crisis/). He has also been invited by Routledge to contribute a chapter on Democracy and Human Rights to their forthcoming International Handbook on Religion and Values; recently completed an encyclopaedia article on Chandran Kukathas for Springer’s forthcoming Encyclopedia of Global Justice; and is revising his chapter on theoretical approaches to human rights for the forthcoming Second Edition of Oxford University press’s Human Rights: Politics and Practice, the path breaking new textbook edited by Michael Goodhart. Langlois is also reviewing for the European Journal of International Relations, the Irish Yearbook of International Law, and for the University of New South Wales. At the end of last Semester Langlois gave a seminar in the new seminar series of the School of International Studies at Flinders looking at Political Research and Research Ethics Committees.

Gender Consortium

Public Sector Linkage Program

Since 2009, the Gender Consortium has been working in partnership with the Ministry of Women’s Empowerment and Child Protection (MoWECP), Government of Indonesia on a 2 year project funded by AusAID.

The project was titled Capacity Building in Gender Sensitive Applied Policy Research and Research Management for Ministry of Women’s Empowerment and Child Protection (MoWECP) and its major stakeholder the Women’s Studies Centres (WSCs) in Indonesia The Gender Consortium was able to build on its existing relationship with the South Australian Government’s Department of Health’s (SA Health), to engage them as the key Australian advisor which added significant value to the project.

Key outcomes the project achieved include the:

- development of MoWECP’s Research Management Framework which was passed into Indonesian government regulation
- funding of 18 applied policy research projects across 18 Indonesian universities
- presentation of applied policy research findings by research teams to key stakeholders at a national symposium and publication of proceedings by MoWECP

The MoWECP team assembled to work in partnership with the Gender Consortium on this project was exceptionally hardworking, committed and experienced across key areas. The leadership and support from this team significantly contributed to the achievement of outcomes.

Australian Leadership Awards Fellowship Program (ALA)

The Gender Consortium welcomed 13 Fellows from the Pacific for the 8 week ALA program titled Building the Capacity of National Women’s Machineries for Gender Sensitive Good Governance. Our in-country partners for this fellowship are the Ministry of Women Youth and Children Affairs, Solomon Islands Government and Ministry of Justice and Community Services, Government of Vanuatu.

National Institute of Labour Studies

Dr Zhang Wei (Research Fellow, NILS) has been nominated by the South Australian Branch of the Economic Society of Australia as the representative of young economists in SA. He attended the National Launch of the Young Economists Network at the Australian Conference of Economists on 12 July in Canberra. Delegates from each state met in the event and discussed the establishment of Young Economists' groups in branches, following on the success of the Queensland effort. Zhang is currently endeavouring to set up a Young Economists' group in South Australia.

The Productivity Commission recently released its wide-ranging report ‘Caring for older Australians’ [http://www.pc.gov.au/projects/inquiry/aged-care/report]. The report draws heavily on the findings of a number of commissioned studies conducted by the NILS research team on the profile of the current aged care workforce (refer to Chapter 14 of the report). NILS continues to produce workforce research for the Department of Health and Ageing, and has just been commissioned to implement the 3rd National Aged Care Workforce Census and Survey (previous versions were in 2003 and 2007). NILS has a unique body of knowledge and expertise on issues relating to the aged care workforce.

More information on NILS current projects is available at [http://www.flinders.edu.au/sabs/nils/research/projects/].

Farewell Owen Covick

On 22 August FBS hosted a morning tea to farewell Assoc.Prof.Owen Covick at the end of his long career with the University. All is not lost though; Owen will become an adjunct academic of the FBS.

Variety Bash 2011

Assoc.Prof.Paul Kenny said it was great to have support from the University and Flinders Business School for Car 162, ‘Taxheads’ as part of the Variety Bash 2011. The highly successful Bash raised about $2 million for children’s charity.

“We travelled in a convoy of 120 cars (all pre 1975 cars) from Sydney to Broome, a distance of about 5800 kms. This meant navigating many dirt roads such as the treacherous Gibb River Road, and about 10 cars did not make it despite the extensive preparation and road side assistance. The Bash is not a race or a rally and speed is not important. The bash generated strong community support in all towns and attracted media coverage, and we, (car 162) were interviewed for Derby and Central Coast radio stations.

“We also entertained and provided donations especially for special needs children and small give always to numerous primary school and country children. The Flinders University rulers and face painting in particular were a big hit with the country kids. Our visits included the following town schools and communities:

Enrichment Day

In conjunction with the University Open Day held on 19 August, FBS conducted a number of workshops for the Enrichment Day. Approximately 400 secondary students visited the campus from schools in the southern suburbs, western suburbs, Adelaide Hills and Mallee.

The workshops included a live stage session on ‘Valuable brands and the Global Financial Crisis’ led by Assoc.Prof. Deon Nel held in the university’s refectory. Rod Nankivel and Greg Wright presented a workshop on managing negotiations. Simon Cottrell presented a workshop on the 2007 Global Financial Crisis and also discussed the current economic climate with an emphasis on the Europe and North American debt problems.
School of Social & Policy Studies

In August, Anthony was invited to participate in a symposium on developments in contemporary Japanese social theory at both Keio and Chiba Universities, Japan. He also delivered a paper, ‘The social theory of new individualism: after the great global crash’ at the American Sociological Association Annual Meeting in Las Vegas.

As an Editorial Board member of ASA journal Contemporary Sociology, Anthony took part in its Annual Editorial Review.

On 16 August Assoc.Prof. Haydon Manning addressed the Governor’s Leadership Foundation on ‘Politics and citizenship’.

Sharyn Roach Anleu has been invited to participate in a panel with Michael Kirby (former Justice of the High Court of Australia) and Michael Lavarch (former Commonwealth Attorney General) at the Crime, Justice and Social Democracy Conference to be held at the Queensland University of Technology, 26-28 September. Sharyn will present a paper co-authored with Kathy Mack entitled: ‘Courts and social change: women in the Australian judiciary’. While in Brisbane Sharyn will attend the John Western Inaugural Lecture at the University of Queensland.

Nik Taylor recently published an article in The Guardian regarding the anthropocentrism embedded in the recent blockbuster, Rise of the Planet of the Apes http://www.guardian.co.uk/science/blog/2011/aug/19/rise-planet-apes-animal-rights. Following interest arising from this article Nik also did an interview with Wildtime radio in the UK.

ACADEMY OF THE SOCIAL SCIENCES IN AUSTRALIA (ASSA)

CALL FOR PROPOSALS FOR WORKSHOPS

The Call for proposals for workshops between July 2012 and June 2013 is now open.

The closing date for applications is Friday 21 October 2011.

The Workshop Program is a principal component in the Academy’s promotion of research in the social sciences. Academy workshops are small gatherings of those working at the cutting edge of social science research. It is expected that a diversity of perspectives will be presented from the variety of social science disciplines, and that the emphasis on invited participants will be on active researchers in the field.

Workshops will be funded to a maximum of $7,500.

Funding is for workshops to be conducted in the period 1 July 2012 - 30 June 2013.

Queries relating to the Workshop Program should be addressed to:

1. Office 2010
Upgrading to Office 2010 certainly isn’t as much of a drama as changing to Office 2007 was. But for anyone who wants some extra guidance, there are several helpful guides available for the more technical functions such as mail merge in Word and pivot tables in Excel. You can find them here:
http://www.flinders.edu.au/cedict/courses/course_notes.cfm
If you want to upgrade, all you need to do is follow the instructions in the May issue of the newsletter (page 12):
The only catch is Endnote if you use it: you will need to update to Endnote X4.

2. New Semester
Lecturers, it may pay to remind your students that they will have to reapply for after-hours access if they want it this semester, as the permissions have been reset.

Why do we do this? Because some students will take a SaBS topic in first semester only but still access the labs and disrupt other students.

3. Hearing strange voices?
We are still having staffing issues, so if you call 13500 and get a strange voice, you have not got the wrong number!

Al White is on in the mornings (he thanks you for your support and patience) and Alex Palazov in the afternoons, assisting Gary, Tony and Richard. Sandra is back part-time, currently working three mornings a week.

Computer Support wishes to assure all staff and students that we will continue to assist you as efficiently and cheerfully as always.

4. They’re still out there...
Answering my phone one day, I tried to puzzle out a heavily-accented voice telling me something was wrong with my computer. I played with them for a while, then got tired and said “Look, friend, I’m a computer tech. Don’t try that on ME!” and hung up.

No one else is going to know when something is wrong with your computer. How much money must they be spending on these phone calls, and how many people are falling for this scam to make it profitable for them?

If a stranger tells you, via internet pop-up, phone, email, postcard, telegram or sky-writing, that your computer is malfunctioning, ignore them.

5. Take a walk down Memory Lane...
This is from the May 2000 Newsletter:

Faculty “standard” PC:
CPU: Intel Celeron 500MHz
RAM: 128Mb
Hard disk: 8.4Gb $1581
includes zip drive, floppy drive, CDROM drive, 8Mb graphics controller, on-board sound, 15” monitor with built-in speakers, network card, WinNT, Office97. Upgrade to a 17” monitor for an extra $280, or put in another 128Mb RAM for around $250.

Faculty “standard” laptop:
CPU: Intel Celeron 450MHz
RAM: 64Mb
Hard disk: 6Gb
Screen: 13.3” active $3536
includes floppy drive, CDROM drive, 8Mb graphics controller, on-board sound, network card, modem card, WinNT, Office97. Once again, you can upgrade various parts if you wish. An extra 64Mb RAM will cost around $100, and a larger hard disk (12Gb) is $644.

ADVANCE POWER SHUTDOWN NOTICE FOR SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 2011

Preventative maintenance will be carried out on the University’s 11Kv electricity distribution network over three weekends from 17 September. ALL University areas will be affected.

Power will be switched off more than once in every area, with early morning and late afternoon outages planned. If there are variations to the times given below, the area(s) concerned will be advised of the changes. Enquiries about the power shut down should be directed to Electrical Team Leader Craig Brown, on 12930 or craig.brown@flinders.edu.au

Important: access will not be permitted to the buildings during shutdowns, and lifts will not operate. Please advise Craig Brown of any issues as soon as possible.

Are you ready for new FLO? Is there anything the eLearning Unit can do to help?

Copyright

Please do not place journal articles and book chapters within FLO topics. Why? Hopefully, the following snippets from the Library’s website will help to explain.

Why Readings and not on my FLO pages?

Copyright limits are relevant for the whole University and Copyright on this kind of material is best managed in a single place as it protects the University and teaching staff from breaches of Copyright. If material has been published then it should be located in eReadings, not directly from your FLO pages.

University website redesign

Last week Antonia Malavazos and Chris Carapetis from MaCO demonstrated proposed new templates for the University’s website: including new designs for the University, Faculty and School homepages. For further info on the web redesign and updates, visit blogs.flinders.edu.au/online-communications/.

On a lighter note, the 2011 ‘Dance Your PhD’ contest has begun!

The dreaded question, ‘So, what’s your PhD research about?’ You take a deep breath and launch into the explanation. People’s eyes begin to glaze over…

At times like these, don’t you wish you could just turn to the nearest computer and show people an online video of your PhD thesis interpreted in dance form?

If you need inspiration you can see last year’s winners at news.sciencemag.org/sciencenow/2010/09/dance-your-phd-finalists-announce.html

If you have any questions about FLO or the cms, please drop in and say ‘Hi!’
