Associate Dean appointment

Mr Max Smith has been appointed as the Faculty’s Associate Dean (International & Community Engagement). Please contact Max with any issues related to the Faculty’s international and community engagement activities. Max will Chair the Faculty’s International & Community Engagement Committee, represent FSBS on the University’s International Committee, and liaise with the International Office and the Associate Deans (International) from the Faculty’s four schools.

I thank Assoc.Professor Curt Andressen for his past service as Associate Dean (International). Curt contributed extensively to the Faculty’s international activities, including directing and developing the MAIRET program in China, an iconic program for the University.

The 2012 Public Lecture Series begins on Tuesday 27 March, 5.45pm for 6pm, Flinders University Victoria Square premises.

Professor Mary Luszcz presents –

Faculty welcome to new commencing students, Friday 24 February

This event, held in the Social Sciences South courtyard, provided an opportunity for Faculty staff to meet students prior to the commencement of semester studies, and for interaction between students studying within the same discipline areas, and degrees. Bunched balloons in designated School colours of yellow, red, blue and green provided the back drop to the O-Week event.

Professor Phyllis Tharenou welcomed new students to the Faculty and drew prize winners in the Schools’ raffle competition. Ms Juliet Kenworthy was announced the winner of the most ‘colourfully dressed’, and received a $100 Coles/Myer gift voucher as her prize.

The day’s extreme heat attributed to all attendees seeking shelter under shade trees and covered verandas of the courtyard. Barbecued sausages and veggie patties accompanied salad and grilled onions for the hungry attendees, making the occasion a very typical Australian summer experience, particularly for the Juliet Kenworthy recently arrived international student contingent.

Thank you to all those who contributed to make the day a success.

Phyllis Tharenou
Executive Dean
Occupational Health & Safety

The Audit Schedule:
The Work-Cover Audit is scheduled to commence in Social and Behavioural Sciences on Thursday 8 March when the Health and Safety Representatives for Work Groups 2 and 3 (Ludek Seda, Flinders Business School and Chris Hankel, BA Office) will meet with the Auditor to discuss their roles in representing the staff in both the Law Commerce and Social Sciences South buildings.

Further appointments have been scheduled with senior staff, the Chair of the OH&S Committee and various other staff with OH&S responsibilities in the Faculty. These meetings will be held in the week commencing 12 March, with specific meeting times to be arranged in consultation with the Manager of the OH&S Unit and the Executive Dean.

Workplace Inspections:
A number of inspections have been carried out over the past few weeks and an annual program has been forwarded to the OH&S Unit detailing the timelines for inspections scheduled for all School and Faculty areas. School Managers will be informed when the inspections will involve rooms in their areas of responsibility. The focus will be on electrical testing and tagging, tidy workspaces, current storage provisions and suitable ergonomic furniture. Issues arising from these area inspections will be documented, risk assessed and responded to according to the priorities established (high – prompt reaction/action, medium – within 7 days and low within 4 weeks).

Security Assistance:
Security or the parking officers are available to transport and assist a person with a disability to access a particular area. This service is available at any time. If you are aware of a staff member who has mobility issues and who requires assistance to teaching rooms or staff areas, please contact security to arrange for this assistance to be provided. Security staff are not permitted to lift mobility impaired persons.

Security staff are available after hours upon request to escort staff and students to their transport. The loop bus is also available during semester until 9.00pm. Staff working after 9.00pm should also advise security, informing them where they are working and their anticipated time of departure.

Building Emergency information:
Staff are encouraged to inform students about the building emergency detection alarms and to recommend, in the event of an evacuation that they head in the direction of the lake – occupants of all three Social Sciences buildings are asked to assemble near the lake in regard to an external evacuation. It is advisable, that on the warning signal (beep, beep) that people get ready and wait for instruction from wardens or via the automated EWIS (emergency warning information system) (whoop, whoop) which are housed in each of the buildings occupied by our Faculty. It is important that students are familiar with these alarms (beep, beep is the warning alarm and whoop, whoop is the evacuate alarm) and that two practice sessions on building evacuations are scheduled each year, one of which will be conducted when students are present. If the EWIS system activates automatically, a pre-recorded message quotes – ‘evacuate as directed’. Where possible the wardens will respond to this alarm and direct staff and students to the nearest, safest exit and in the direction of the lake. Please do not congregate near the car parks – the emergency services vehicles will use this space (in all buildings). It will also impede the access of these personnel who will meet with the chief wardens to establish the cause of the emergency.

Heavy Lifting Assistance:
if you need help to lift, move, relocate any furniture, boxes, etc, please use the fellows who are specifically trained to do this heavy work. Our caretakers have had suitable training and use personal protective equipment to deal with heavy lifting, dusty conditions or situations which are very noisy. Contact them by email: campusservices@flinders.edu.au giving clear, concise directions, information, and details about what’s required. All staff are discouraged from performing any tasks that may result in any incident/accident/injury.
Occupational Health & Safety Training Opportunities

All personnel are responsible for their own wellbeing in the workplace and are urged to be conscious of the welfare of others. The Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences encourages staff to participate in the training which is offered by the University Occupational Health and Safety Unit.

Listed below are some of the most popular training sessions regularly offered by the OH&S Unit, but if you require something special or believe many staff would benefit from some OH&S training not already mentioned, we would be pleased to hear from you.

- Back Care/Manual Handling
- Senior First Aid Training
- Senior First Aid – Refresher course
- Workstation assessments

OH&S Supervisor Training – staff who supervise others are responsible for their safety and well-being and are required by University OH&S Policies to complete the online training package. Access to this package is available at: http://www.flinders.edu.au/ohsw/training/suptrng_reg.cfm

Supervisors are required to revisit this training package every 5 years.

The supervisor is expected to promote and provide a safe working environment for staff, students and visitors with attention to the requirements of the Occupational Health Safety and Welfare (OHSW) Act, the Workers Rehabilitation and Compensation Act, University OHSW and Injury Management policies and Equal Opportunity Acts applicable to the State in which the position is located. Specific responsibilities are detailed at:

News from Schools and Units

National Institute of Labour Studies

Dr Josh Healy attended the 26th Association of Industrial Relations Academics (AIRAANZ) conference on the Gold Coast from 8-10 February. There he presented two papers relating to current or recently completed NILS projects: ‘Adjusting to skill shortages’ and ‘Social consequences of enterprise bargaining’. Josh also represented the Australian Bulletin of Labour at an informal ‘meet the journal editors’ roundtable session that was held during the conference.

On 20 February, the National Centre for Vocational Education Research (NCVER) published a monograph written by several researchers at NILS. The report, titled ‘Skill shortages: prevalence, causes, remedies and consequences for Australian businesses’ was co-authored by Dr Josh Healy, Professor Kostas Mavromaras and Professor Peter Sloane. The report analyses panel data on business performance to add empirical evidence to the ongoing debate on skill shortages in the Australian labour market. The report distinguishes between simple and complex forms of skill shortages, and shows that these have quite different consequences for businesses’ responses and performance. The research attracted some media interest and was featured in the national news bulletin of the Triple J radio station. The project was funded by a competitive grant from NCVER, through the National Vocational Education and Training Research and Evaluation (NVETRE) program.
Flinders Business School

Flinders Business School's participation in the Knowledge Exchange Grants, coordinated by the University's Southern Knowledge Transfer Partnership, has been featured in an E-book that was launched on 9 February 2012. The projects between University staff, students and regional stakeholders saw new partnerships for student engagement with the professions, assisting businesses to go online, and supporting the initiatives of local industry and government. Vicki Golsby displayed photos and provided discussion on the project conducted with Anne Gleeson entitled 'Building University Students Industry (k)Nowledge (BUSIN)'. The project was one of 34 conducted in the Southern region over the last 12 months. The E-book can be read online at: http://www.emagsa.org/Partnering_with_our_Southern_Adelaide_Community/

At the final FBS Dean's morning tea in December 2011, Ms Leanne Lavelle from Pearson Education presented certificates to Ms Sarah Randall-Smith, Ms Sarah Tytula, and Ms Michelle Whittle, in recognition of an excellent group report entitled 'Issues that can arise from implementing a contingent workforce' as part of the Flinders Business School's Reward and Performance Management topic.

- Eva Kemps participated in a radio interview on ‘Constant cravings: the psychology of overindulgence’ for the ABC Radio National Program, First Bite, that was broadcast on 11 February.
- Charlotte Tottman gave a talk at the FMC Nursing & Midwifery Divisional Inservice about her research into the expectations and experiences of new motherhood.
School of Social & Policy Studies

The School is delighted to welcome Assoc.Professor Gerry Redmond who has taken up the post of Director, Flinders Institute of Public Policy and Management (FIPPM), and is teaching in the Graduate Program in Public Administration. He has extensive research experience in child development, child well-being, and social security policies for families and children’s perspectives on disadvantage. Gerry has previously worked as a Senior Research Fellow at the Social Policy Research Centre, University of New South Wales. He has also worked at the UNICEF Innocenti Research Centre in Florence and with the Department of Applied Economics, University of Cambridge.

We also welcome former Premier Mike Rann following his appointment as a Professorial Fellow in the School. He will undertake teaching in the areas of social inclusion, the politics of climate change, voting behaviour and elections, environmental politics and social and strategic planning.

Congratulations to Dr Damien Riggs who has been awarded $10,500 for a project titled 'Experiences of Australian transmen: issues of identity, discrimination, and health'.

The School also congratulates Carolyn Corkindale. Ten years after she made a CD Rom called ‘If I were Ben...’ for an NH&MRC study on adolescent males and unplanned pregnancy, a remastered and edited DVD version has been created and accepted by SHineSA (Sexual Health information networking and education) for its curriculum in SA schools. Carolyn hopes to be able to evaluate its adoption by staff and its impact on year 10 students. This was an innovative approach to involve young men (but now adapted for females as well) both cognitively and effectively in decision-making in the setting of adolescent pregnancy. ‘If I were Ben...’ has now been remade in Eire and Northern Ireland to suit that cultural background, using the original script almost entirely. The filming was conducted by honours students from Screen Studies at Flinders.

Visiting International Research Fellow

In the month of March, the School of Social and Policy Studies will be hosting Assoc.Professor Susan Strega from the School of Social Work, University of Victoria (British Columbia). As part of her visiting research program, A/Prof Strega will present a School Seminar on Thurs. 15 March (1 - 2pm) on ‘Research as resistance: working with marginalised populations’. On 28 March she will give a special evening Public Seminar at the Hetzel Lecture Theatre, State Library of SA (North Tce) from 6 - 8.30pm – further details will be circulated soon. Her visit is funded by the Visiting International Research Fellowship scheme of the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Research). The School, including the Gender and Sexuality research cluster, welcomes A/Prof Strega and looks forward to collaborating with her across the coming weeks. Susan Strega is co-editor with Leslie Brown of the book Research as Resistance: critical, indigenous and anti-oppressive approaches (Canadian Scholars’ Press Inc., 2005).

Papers and Publications

Dr Mubarak Rahamathulla presented a paper entitled ‘A theoretical formulation on risk-taking behaviours of adolescents while using the internet in Australia’ in the Eighth International Conference on Technology, Knowledge and Society, 16 -18 January, University of California Los Angeles.

From Dr Heather Brook

I would like to thank everyone for their continuing care and good wishes during my illness last year—especially my colleagues in Women’s Studies and the School of Social and Policy Studies. Having so many safe pairs of hands around me made otherwise very challenging treatments much more bearable. I’m pleased to report that not only has my hair grown back, I am also in remission and hopeful of a full recovery.

Thanks!
Heather
CONFERENCE: IS SOCIAL DEMOCRACY EXHAUSTED? PATHWAYS, REFLECTIONS, DILEMMAS

On 17-18 February, the School of Social and Policy Studies hosted a conference and public forum on the future of social democratic politics and public policy. The conference, organised by Dr Rob Manwaring and Assoc.Professor Lionel Orchard, attracted 70 delegates from across Australia and overseas. Professor Phyllis Tharenou welcomed the South Australian Premier, Jay Weatherill who opened the conference. There were two keynote addresses. Professor Jan Pronk, a former leading Dutch Statesman (and former UN envoy to the Sudan) outlined a range of challenges facing centre-left politics. Professor John Quiggin, ARC Federation Fellow from the University of Queensland delivered the second keynote focussing on social democratic political economy.

22 papers were presented at the conference with good representation from Flinders staff and papers from Rob, Lionel, and Haydon Manning. Papers covered the challenges of low tax social democracy, ‘Blue Labour’ in the UK, the fragmentation of support for centre-left politics and parties, the political implications of changing forms of citizen engagement through online organisations like GetUp!, gender dimensions of social democratic politics and policy, and the diversity of concepts shaping social democratic thought. Comparative papers looked at alternatives and pathways in the UK, Norway, Denmark, Spain and New Zealand.

The conference attracted a range of high profile delegates including the Hon Brian Howe, former Deputy Prime Minister, Tony Piccolo, Member for Light in the SA Parliament, and John Langmore, former Member for Fraser in the House of Representatives, Australian Parliament.

On the Friday evening a public forum on the issues was chaired by Deputy Vice Chancellor Andrew Parkin. The forum panel comprised Jenny McAllister, the ALP National President, Janet Giles, Secretary, SA Unions and Professors Pronk and Quiggin. The forum attracted over 110 attendees, and covered a wide range of issues facing social democratic and labour politics.

The Premier’s opening address, the keynotes and the public forum were recorded, and can be viewed here: http://mtu.flinders.edu.au/events/SDC1.cfm Conference proceedings will be published later this year.
School of International Studies

Welcome: Visiting researcher Ms Susri Adeni

Ms Susri Adeni (De) is visiting the Centre for Development Studies and the Gender Consortium as part of a UNESCO/Keizo Obichi Research Fellowship Program in February and March 2012. De lectures in the Faculty of Politics and Social Sciences, the University of Bengkulu, Indonesia and will be developing a research project entitled ‘Information and communication technologies for poverty reduction for women in coastal areas of Bengkulu, Sumatra’. While at Flinders she will be supervised by Peter Lumb, an adjunct lecturer at the Centre for Development Studies and an Associate of the Gender Consortium, and Dr Anuradha Mundkur, Associate Director of the Gender Consortium. De was a supported researcher in Indonesia in a research capacity building project funded by AusAid and conducted by the Indonesian Ministry of Women Empowerment and the Gender Consortium in 2010.

Farewell:

The History Discipline and its friends farewelled Emeritus Professor Eric Richards on Friday, 17 February. Eric has had a long and distinguished career as the Professor of History at Flinders – and he says he intends to continue that career in retirement. His friends and colleagues gathered at his house in Brighton, where they were addressed by David Lockwood, the head of discipline, Ralph Shlomowitz, formerly from Economic History, and by Eric himself. Despite only requesting ‘a small box of Haigh’s chocolates’ as a parting gift, Eric was presented with a fine tennis racquet (he got the chocolates as well).

Staff Activities:

Michael Barr has been invited to give a paper at the London School of Economics as part of a two-day workshop at the beginning of May on ‘Anticipations of the Asian Century’. The theme of the workshop is the ideas and leadership of Asian leaders of the 20th century, and the contributions they have made towards the 21st century. The conference is being organised and generously funded by Prof. Ramachandra Guha of LSE IDEAS. Michael’s paper will be on Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore.

ARC Discovery Early Career Researcher Award (DECRA) for funding in 2013

Internal (Faculty) Quality Reviews for DECRA applications are being organised by Heather Paull (heather.paull@flinders.edu.au x12294): 9 March is the last acceptance date to ensure reviews are undertaken in time for applicant to take on board advice. Applications are due at the ARC 21 March 2012.

Updated Flinders Certification Form and 2012 Budget Tool

The Research Services Office updated the Flinders University Certification Form in February 2012 and has also released the 2012 Budget Tool.

Please ensure you are using the updated certification form when submitting applications.

If you have any queries or would like to provide feedback on the updated forms please contact Amy Petty or send an email to research.grants@flinders.edu.au

To find information about the procedure for getting a certification form signed off by the Executive Dean, please see the Faculty’s Research web page at http://www.flinders.edu.au/sabs/research/forms/cert.cfm. From the web page:

The Flinders University Certification Form requires the signatures of the:

- Investigators involved;
- Deans of Schools of the investigators involved;
- Research representatives of the Faculties involved (Executive Dean or delegate).

Please note: When sending a certification form to the Executive Dean for signature you must attach to the completed Certification Form a full copy of the application/contract/agreement.

Additionally, you must include a covering memo using the Memorandum template to accompany all documents and signed by the Dean of your School providing the Executive Dean with a brief statement explaining:

- what the project/contract is about;
- the resource implications for the School and Faculty, if any; and
- advice that the Dean is satisfied that the project complies with the University's policies.

Please send the certification form with covering memo and attached application to the Faculty Research Officer, room 268S, x12715 for signature of the Social and Behavioural Sciences Executive Dean.

When the certification form has been signed by the Executive Dean, the original certification form will be scanned, converting to pdf, and emailed to the RSO cc to applicant. The original certification form will then also be sent to the RSO by internal mail unless the request has been specifically made to return the original to the applicant.

Higher Education Research Data Collection (HERDC)

HERDC is the annual collection of data on research activity throughout the university and contributes significantly to Commonwealth research funding for Flinders University. A major component of the submission is a report on the number of eligible research publications authored in the previous calendar year. Please complete entry of 2011 publications into the RMIS by 31 March. The RMIS can be found at http://www.flinders.edu.au/research/

Assistance in each school can be obtained through:

Faculty Office – Michele Lang (ext 12715)
Flinders Business School – Nicholas Bluhm (ext 13089)
International Studies – Robyn Shepherdson (ext 15836)
Social and Policy Studies – Carolyn Corkindale (ext 12403)
Psychology – Karen Yardley (ext 12416)
NILS – Rupali Saikia (ext 12475)

The Research Services Office can also provide assistance: for publications data entry and HERDC-related queries contact research.data@flinders.edu.au and for technical assistance with the RMIS contact Garry Beamish (ext 17938).
Call for Applications for the 2012 Visiting Fellowship for Travel to CASS, China in 2012

Flinders University/Chinese Academy Of Social Sciences Exchange Agreement

Closing date: cob Monday 16 April 2012

Send to: Mary Lyons, Faculty Research Officer, Rm 267 SSS

Flinders University supports an exchange program of Visiting Fellowships with the People’s Republic of China in cooperation with the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS) in Beijing. Applications are now invited for travel to China in 2012.

Research scholars in the Faculty of Education, Humanities, Law and the Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences at Flinders University, who are Australian citizens or permanent residents of Australia, are eligible to apply to participate in this program. Normally, once a scholar has participated in the program, she/he is not eligible to do so again within 5 years.

The aims of the program include:

- collaboration between Australian and Chinese scholars;
- the opportunity for access to research and research materials not easily accessible outside the countries concerned; and
- the development of networks of scholars with related interests both within and between the two countries.

See application form and more information at http://flinders.edu.au/sabs/research/faculty-funding/

Library Assignment

The Library Assignment is online in the new FLO format. It has been completely reworked to reflect the new FindIt@Flinders and online environment.

The new FLO software has enabled us to create the Library Assignment as part of a “topic” called Library@Flinders which is available to all students.

If you would like to gain access to Library@Flinders and the Library Assignment to see what it is all about, please enrol here. You will then see Library@Flinders in your topic list on FLO.

[This message and enrolment option is also in the support materials for staff: Preparing for teaching in FLO.]

To ensure that beginning students learn how to use the library resources you could make the Library Assignment a part of your topic assessment for a small per cent of marks (say 5%). This increases the participation rate enormously, as does an endorsement from their lecturer or tutor. Talk to your liaison librarian for more information.
