

Summer Research Award Guidelines

The Summer Research Award has been established as an opportunity for students interested in studying for an Honours degree in the College of Business, Government and Law (CBGL) to undertake a research project supervised by a member of staff.

There are six Summer Research Awards available to high achieving students.

Prior to applying, the applicant will need to find a supervisor for their project. This is likely to be, but does not have to be, the same academic staff member as the Honours supervisor.

The timing of the research project will take place during the summer vacation for a period of up to six weeks. The starting date will be determined by the applicant and their supervisor.

This award is solely for educational purposes. The recipient is under no obligation to perform any non-thesis work, nor are they required to attend at the University or elsewhere, at any particular time. There is no intention to create an employment relationship.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must be a current undergraduate coursework student. Preferably the student is enrolled in, or considering enrolment in, an Honours degree.

The proposed project must be aligned with the College of Business, Government and Law mission statement, which reads as follows:

We embrace innovative knowledge and practice to tackle the challenges of our time, with a strategic focus on technology, health and social impact.

or the mission of one of the Research Centres or Institutes within the College of Business, Government and Law.

SELECTION

The Summer Research Awards are assessed and selected on academic merit by academic staff members of the College of Business, Government and Law.

BENEFITS

The award benefit is up to $1500 for the duration of the research project.

The award benefit will be paid in two instalments: at the start of the research project, and at the completion of the research project. For the awardee to receive the final payment, the awardee's supervisor must send an email notifying that the awardee has completed the research project to cbgl.honours@flinders.edu.au.

DUE DATE

The application is to be emailed to cbgl.honours@flinders.edu.au by deadline, see webpage for closing date of current application round.

The application must be filled out correctly and co-signed by the supervisor as per the form. Late applications will not be considered.
