APSA 2019 – Flinders University, 22-25 September: ‘Shifting Identities, Political Change and the Idea of the Nation’

Welcome to the APSA annual conference hosted at Flinders University. We hope you have a great conference experience, and we look forward to meeting with colleagues, exchanging ideas, and celebrating the best of Australian political science.

The main theme for the conference is exploring the entwined ideas of changing identities and political change – particularly through the prism of nationalism and the idea of nation.

APSA will have several stream areas, and this year we are giving prominence to Indigenous politics, particularly the key issues for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. For the first time, APSA will host a dedicated First Nations Forum.

In addition, we are also focussing on the place of Australia in the Asia region, with a dedicated stream on ‘Politics in Asia’. As with previous conferences we have dedicated stream areas for Australian politics, political theory, gender and sexuality, International Relations, public policy and governance, media and politics, comparative politics, environmental politics, along with the afore-mentioned streams on Politics in Asia, and Indigenous politics.

Finally, I look forward to seeing many of you at the welcome drinks at the Alere Function Centre on Monday, and for those attending – the conference dinner at Old Oval Estate in McLaren Vale.

We wish you a great conference!

Dr Rob Manwaring, on behalf of the Local Organising Committee
College of Business, Government and Law, Flinders University

The volume traces the evolution of Palestine-Israel conflict through several historically-informed and roughly chronological, yet overlapping investigations. Issues that have arisen over the last few years are addressed, including upheavals caused by the election of the Trump administration in the United States, and the periodic and ongoing conflicts between Israel and Hamas in Gaza. The volume will be of interest to both scholars and the general public wishing to understand the historical and present drivers of the conflict in the Holy Land.

Presenting at APSA – Some Guidelines

We aim to make APSA a warm and inclusive conference for colleagues to share and disseminate their research and ideas.

Timing

All panels are 1.5 hours, and most have four presenters for each panel. We suggest each speaker has 15 minutes to present their core findings, and then leave 30 minutes for Q and A. Most of the panels will have Chairs to keep time and facilitate discussion. We encourage colleagues to be constructive, respectful and mindful of others to make the sessions as successful as possible. Where there are five presenters, we suggest 12 minutes per speaker, with a focus on outlining the key findings and issues. We ask that you keep to time!

Constructive Feedback

During discussion and feedback, we also like to remind you that many colleagues, especially during the PhD candidatures, are still presenting ‘works in progress’, and for some this will be their first time presenting at an academic conference. We are also delighted that several international speakers will be present, and for some of those, they may not be presenting in their first or main language. We ask all colleagues to be positive, constructive and inclusive in their feedback.

We have allocated Chairpersons for each panel, where we can. The Chairperson will keep speakers to time and facilitate discussion. Please respect their authority and judgments, especially with timekeeping. Where sessions do not have chairpersons, we suggest you allocate one from the speakers (or from the audience). Unless otherwise agreed, the order of presenters should be in alphabetical order (by surname).

IT

Each panel room will have access to a screen, computer, and internet access. PowerPoint is available. We ask that colleagues upload or save their presentations to the desktop during the break, or before the session starts.

Emergency details

- Dial triple zero (000) for emergency services (fire/ambulance/police).
- Call campus security on 8201 2880 (24/7)

Name badges

Each delegate will be provided with a name badge and a lanyard – we ask you to wear them for the duration of the conference.

Program

The full program for the conference is outlined here. We will update the conference website, and this will be the most up-to-date version. We advise that there may be some room changes, and we will post information at the registration desk.

Social program

Welcome Drinks – Monday 23 September, 5.00 – 6.30pm Alere, Alere Function Centre, Bedford park. All delegates are invited to attend the welcome drinks event at the end of the first full day of the conference. Delegates can purchase additional guest tickets for $50.00.
