Managing Probation for Professional Staff - CMPH

Managing probation effectively is an essential part of creating a positive onboarding experience for new employees. This document has been created to provide guidance for supervisors/managers on how to navigate the process successfully. Casual employees do not normally have a probation period.

Review Probation Period

Around the 18-week mark, you should receive a notification via Workday to advise that you need to review the probation period. You will have the choice to either confirm the probation or request further discussion.

At this point, if you are not going to confirm the probation, you will need to contact the CMPH People and Culture at cmph.pc@flinders.edu.au or rrh.pc@flinders.edu.au or <a href="mailto:rrh.pc@flinders.edu.

Training and Development

If there are any training and development requirements that have been identified during the probation review, recording them here will assist in ensuring the employee attends and completes training as required. This form can also be used during the employee's performance review to inform any future development needs.

Training Need	Course Identified Y/N	Internal/External	Formal/Informal	Completed (Date)

Note: Depending on the type of course, your employee may be eligible to take advantage of the Professional Development Fund provisions under the Flinders University Enterprise Agreement 2023 to 2026 to fund the training.

At the end of the probationary period, and once confirmed as complete, please save this document on the employee's personal file.
