Combine your degree

Flinders University offers a range of flexible degrees covering areas such as criminology, laws and legal practice, forensics and cybersecurity. Combine your degree to pursue multiple passions and broaden your job prospects. Graduate with the skills and knowledge to take your place in an ever-changing world.

Experienced teaching made personal

Flinders has the state’s largest and longest-running criminology program, and an innovative law team committed to social justice. Our classes are comparatively small with, on average, 40 students per class. That means our teachers and staff will know your name and customise learning to suit you.

Hands-on experience

Flinders’ Work Integrated Learning (WIL) enables you to gain work experience while you study. You’ll have the opportunity to gain real-world experience through placements, practicums, field studies and simulated workplace settings and assessment activities.

New Flinders city campus

Future-ready curriculum

You'll graduate future-ready with three innovative topics including: Legal Innovation and Creative Thinking, Innovation for Social Justice Impact, and From Innovation to Impact. In Law in a Digital Age, you'll create a simple legal software for a not-for-profit client, collaborating to make a real difference to increase access to justice.

Four professional placements

Students participate in professional placements providing real work experience to develop networks and be prepared for a successful career. At Flinders as part of Law in Action, you'll undertake a semester-long placement for one day a week, putting what you've learnt into practice with either the Flinders Legal Centre or industry partners, in addition to the Law in a Digital Age topic where you'll work with a not-for-profit client. Legal practice students also undertake 225 hours of workplace experience.

All-in-one degree

At Flinders, you'll be ready to practise because it offers an integrated undergraduate legal practice degree in South Australia. You'll undertake practical legal training in your final year of study. This enables you to seek admission from the Supreme Court of South Australia to practise law right after you graduate.

Using future-focused legal skills to make an impact

Our law students developed an online app that aims to smooth the path into stable housing for some of South Australia's most vulnerable people. The project was part of our transformative Law in a Digital Age subject, and it's a rare opportunity to make a difference in the world.

Example of app user interface

Students Hannah Guest, Jocelyn Neumueller and Laura Spencer developed a Community Access Tool for the renowned Hutt St Centre, which advocates and empowers people at risk of or experiencing homelessness, as part of Flinders University's transformative Law in a Digital Age subject.

The new application allows Hutt St Centre staff to more effectively provide information on the services, amenities and facilities available in the communities that the centre's clients may move into. Currently, the Hutt St Centre Pathways program provides council packs to its clients when moving, which include useful information about the local services and support available. However, these packs cannot always be tailored to individual needs, and aren't available to clients who don't interact with the Pathways team.

To use the app, Hutt St Centre staff (or the clients themselves) first answer a series of questions to determine eligibility for certain kinds of assistance. The application then draws information from a database of council specific services for eligible clients.

The Community Access Tool is the result of a collaborative project within Flinders University's Law in a Digital age topic. This subject brought together law and computer science students to help prepare them for the opportunities of an increasingly digital future.

Flinders University's Dean of Law, Professor Tania Leiman, says that Law in a Digital Age is a vital subject for anyone studying law.

"It's not just about the tech," says Professor Leiman. "It's about mindset – being innovative, being enterprising and being open to exploring the possibility of new solutions. It's also about using all the tools we have to make justice more accessible and available for more people in our community."

PRISONS: HOW CAN WE DO BETTER?

Cooper Lawson, a Flinders Criminology student, explored ways of improving the corrections system in his Industry Project. It went so well, that the Department for Correctional Services offered him a job.

Criminology students have the opportunity to complete an Industry Project as part of their degree. In 2022, our students explored the creation of new environments and delivering rehabilitation programs more effectively, in a project involving the Department for Correctional Services.

Representatives from the Department for Correctional Services said that the external view provided by students was immensely helpful in learning about the public's perspective on rehabilitation. It also helps the Department network with the next generation of public servants, who will one day make a difference to the lives of offenders.

"It was really nice to be able to meet the industry project providers, and some of my future colleagues... I'm actually the first Aboriginal Victim Liaison Officer – this is a new role within the Victim Services Unit," says Lawson. "Being an Aboriginal student myself, I'm really excited to be able to engage with this, because that means that I can bring that cultural inclusivity, and those different conversations, into such a dynamic workforce."

Learn more about the Industry Project our students completed with the Department for Correctional Services.

Guaranteed entry

If you achieve an ATAR equal to or above the published guaranteed entry selection rank (and you meet course prerequisites) you will be guaranteed a place at Flinders. We offer guaranteed entry for most courses.

“I originally chose Flinders as they have one of the best facilities for future teachers and fantastic student engagement. Studying at Flinders has been a wonderful experience that has given me the opportunity to discover what I truly want into the future while also providing me with support in every way imaginable. Flinders and Yungkurrinthe have given me the opportunity to meet others with similar ambitions and goals as myself and find the benefit of an education in places I would never have thought to look. As a proud Indigenous woman, I want to use my degree to work in First Nation communities to help our young people make it through their high schooling experience and onto their own future aspirations.”

“I always knew I wanted to study overseas at some stage during my degree. A semester exchange gave me the chance to complete topics that weren’t available in my home university and experience life in a city that is very different to my own. Having completed a semester overseas, I now have an edge over the countless other students that are completing the same degree as me and have formed memories that will always stay with me.”

Fees and charges

Your course fees – Commonwealth support

All our courses list indicative fees, but as an undergraduate student your course is Commonwealth supported provided you're an eligible Australian citizen, New Zealand citizen or permanent resident.

Your course being Commonwealth supported means that your course fees are shared between the Australian government and you – with your portion being the student contribution amount.

HECS-HELP loan

You won't have to pay your fees up-front if you're an Australian citizen or holder of a permanent humanitarian visa. You can get a HECS-HELP loan for your student contribution portion of your uni fees. Find out more about costs to plan for while you're at uni at

Glossary

There are many terms used within a university that may be unfamiliar or confusing. Below are a few terms that may need explanation.

Admission pathway

Any one of the options available to a prospective higher education student that will enable them to meet the entry requirements of their chosen courses.

ATAR

The Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR) is a ranking from 30 (lowest) to 99.95 (highest) agreed by COAG as a nationally equivalent measure of a person's relative academic ranking within their complete age cohort in the year they graduated from senior secondary school.

Adjustment factors

Often referred to as 'bonus points', these are additional points that may be used in combination with an applicant's university aggregate to derive a person's course selection rank.

Defer

Delaying the start of a course of study by one year (commencing students only). If you have already enrolled, then you need to withdraw from topics before you can defer.

Not all courses are deferrable, please visit flinders.edu.au/defer for details.

Guaranteed entry selection rank

Achieve a selection rank equal to or above the published guaranteed entry selection rank and you'll be guaranteed a place at Flinders.

Major

A sequence of topics required to be taken as defined in your course rule, normally across all years of a course.

Minor

A sequence of topics required to be taken as defined in your course rule, generally as part of a major.

Offer round/s

Refers to the series of dates on which offers of higher education places are issued to applicants throughout the year, whether through a tertiary admission centre or directly by a higher education provider.

Selection rank

The ranking that tertiary admission centres and most universities actually use to assess admission to a course. A person's course selection rank can include their ATAR, any adjustments they are eligible for, such as equity or subject adjustments, other contributions calculated on the basis of work experience or previous non-secondary study, portfolio assessments, results of the Special Tertiary Admissions Test, other supplementary tests, etc.

Listing your SATAC preferences

You may enter up to six course preferences that you would like to study. You should list these in order in which you'd like to study them, with the one you would like most listed first. If you cannot be offered a place in your first preference, you will then be considered for your second preference and so on. It is also important to consider a backup plan. Ensure you include our recommended pathway courses in your preferences.
