“The experience I had at Flinders definitely set me up for success in my current career as an early childhood teacher. Just as children can learn so much from Mother Nature, so do we as adults. I was provided with endless resources and opportunities to learn and experience, and during placements was very well supported, with course coordinators that listened and helped me every step of the way.”

Inherent requirements

The Australian Government has introduced the Literacy and Numeracy Test for all initial teacher education students to ensure they have the high level of personal literacy and numeracy skills required of teachers. For further details and additional inherent requirements visit: flinders.edu.au/study/courses/education-inherent-requirements

Entry requirements

All prospective students interested in studying an initial teacher education course in South Australia are required to complete a non-academic assessment task known as a Teaching Capabilities Statement. This is a requirement of the Australian Institute for Teaching and School Leadership (AITSL) and supports the national priority to ensure those entering the teaching profession have the personal qualities to best support learners and graduate as classroom-ready, high-quality teachers.

The Teaching Capabilities Statement will be requested as part of the application process through SATAC. flinders.edu.au/study/courses/teaching-capabilities-statement

Early childhood, primary, secondary, inclusive and specialised... how do I choose?

In the first instance, think about how you would like to work with your areas of interest and expertise with the children in your class. Early childhood and primary teachers work with the whole curriculum but stay with a particular group of children for the year. Secondary teachers specialise in subject areas, often working with a larger number of students. Special education teachers work across these contexts but also have a very specific skill set to support their work with adolescents in the secondary setting.
