Master of Virtual Production

One of the only degrees of its kind in the country*, the Master of Virtual Production covers virtual production, motion capture, virtual reality, and visual effects.

With this degree, you'll learn the fundamental skills needed to thrive in this rapidly growing and in-demand field.

Embedded in Flinders' purpose-built motion capture studio, The Void, and taught by practising virtual production specialists with strong links to international industry partners, this master's degree is a game changer for the world of film and television.

Using game engine technology to create screen content, Virtual Production is where the physical and digital worlds meet. The introduction of virtual reality and virtual production have transformed the future of creating film. Think of Avatar, The Mandalorian or Game of Thrones. The possibilities in virtual production really are endless.
